Frequently asked questions

How should schools use a head lice policy template?

Use the policy template as a governance baseline, then adapt communication timings and responsibilities to your setting while keeping language non-diagnostic.

What should a lice letter to parents template include?

It should include calm exposure context, practical home-check steps, and clear escalation timing, without naming pupils or making diagnostic claims.

When should a school lice outbreak protocol be escalated?

Escalate when repeated reports continue across households, uncertainty remains after checks, or welfare concerns increase in a short period.

Can this support a head lice policy for schools UK and outside the UK?

Yes. The framework is built for UK policy language and can be adapted for international settings by mapping local governance and safeguarding requirements.

Need implementation support?

Start with the toolkit, then use schools hub guidance and escalation pathways for rollout support.
